SWAMPED! A musical about friendship, tolerance and change

Huntington – Littleville Elementary School first and second graders will present SWAMPED! - a musical about friendship, tolerance and change – in the Gateway Performing Arts Center on Thursday, May 17. Curtain rises at 6:30 p.m. for this free musical performance and everyone is invited.

A student art show precedes the concert and opens at 6 p.m.

Swamped! tells the story of preparations for an upcoming party that go amiss as different creatures encounter challenges: the turtles are late, the bullfrog is bullying, tadpoles are growing limbs (gasp!) and the dragonfly larvae are afraid to spread their wings and fly.

The musical is directed by music teacher Renee Mosher; the art show by Amy Thornton.

This event was supported by the Gateway Education Foundation.
