Gateway’s P351 students lead service project

Huntington – From March 22 until April 5, the six Gateway students who took part in Project 351 in January, have initiated their follow-up service project, along with schools throughout Massachusetts.

According to Melinda Main and Sierra Russell, the students are leading a drive to collect new and gently used children’s clothing (for ages 0 to 12), which will be donated to Cradles to Crayons in Boston. The agency formed in 2002 to provide essential items to children who live in poverty or low-income, that they need to thrive. They fulfill this mission by connecting communities that have with communities that need.

Anyone who has items to donate is invited to visit Gateway Regional Middle School, 12 Littleville Rd., Huntington. A crib will be set up inside the main entrance. At the end of the drive, adviser Hannah Sullivan will bring the donated items to a central drop off at the Holyoke Mall for all area schools taking part, where they will be transported.
